Great Garbo
May Be Off
For Sweden

HALIFAX, Dec. 31.—Passengers on the Swedish-American liner Grönholm, sailing from here for Gothenburg, Sweden, said today they believed Greta Garbo was a passenger on the ship. Reporters found no trace of the Swedish film star, but they were told she had been in the city and kept locked since the liner left New York and of the presence of mail reporters waiting to see Garbo. The report was that the actress was bound for her homeland to spend the Christmas holidays with her people.

CITY HALL SURVEY NOW AUTHORIZED

report to be filed with city council not later than the second regular meeting in January, 1935, at a cost not to exceed $1,000.

WHISTON PIPE PROPOSED

The second motion submitted by Ald. McCraith, covering the appointment of a committee to conduct the survey. "That the naming of persons to make the survey be left in the hands of the committee, and that the committee be given the power to disburse funds to the committee, and that further authority be given to the committee to hire persons to conduct the survey. Both local bodies concerned in the survey, or either, or both, will be given the job of overseeing the city's departmental operations."

The proposed investigation, with strong opposition at Monday's meeting, was supported by Ald. McCraith, H. J. Macdonald A. Bisset, J. W. Fry supporting and Alderman J. J. Jackson, the only one to oppose the survey. Both local bodies concerned in the survey, or either, or both, will be given the job of overseeing the city's departmental operations.

LONG DISCUSSED

The move to launch the investigation was the result of much discussion of the question based on a majority and a minority report from the committee on the conduct of the survey. The McCraith-Frost majority report recommended a survey of the city to be conducted by a committee of the city council, the purpose of making the survey of all city departments and presenting the report to the city council. The report of the personnel of this sub-committee, Ald. Findlay, Ald. Bisset, Ald. McCraith, Ald. Bisset, Ald. and himself.

Advertising Not On Level, Fined

OTTAWA, Dec. 31.—As a result of a decision at the Vigerille Chamber of Commerce Monday, a fine of $100 and costs was imposed on the Ottawa Journal for an advertisement placed yesterday in the paper in a police court on a charge of misleading advertising.

Believed however, the committee was quite capable of making the necessary adjustments in departmental operations. Then moved another amendment.

"It did not occur to members of the committee to call in the services of a departmental state," said Ald. McCraith. "But we thought we could do better than that."

Ald. East: "Our departments have been operating on a system of observation with a view to eliminating overlapping, first by the committee, then by the commissioners. I think Ald. Findlay's motion is the lesser of two evils and I am in full agreement with the Alderman. We have been subjected to other investigations which cost us a great deal of time and effort."

REPORT ON FILE

Ald. McCraith's motion was then carried.

He then opposed to giving the committee power to make an appointment which means an expenditure of $1,000 a month for the year. He recalled that a report from one investigator "is in cobwebs today" as the committee has not been able to get the information. We have been subjected to other investigations which cost us a great deal of time and effort."

Ald. Findlay's proposal was then carried.

Following him, Ald. Findlay took the same tack. The majority report of the special committee indicated that the committee should be given the power to conduct the survey themselves. He declared: "They say they have been beaten. Well, we knew before we were elected the time it would be to carry on the administration. The third time we play ball or call for a by-election forthwith," he said, adding that he

THE FUTURE
"AN EAR TO
THE GROUND

MONTHS ago we began sending you motorists of the Dominion the new third edition of "The Proving Ground of Public Opinion"—asking what you want in next year's cars. Through Canada's largest automobile dealer organization we are cocking another sensitive ear to "listen in". We do this because we believe that in building cars for the public, we should be guided by the public.

And by the thousands you are replying to our questionnaires, telling us the things you want in even better General Motors cars for 1935.

What will these cars be like? Let us answer that by asking another question. What are the outstanding features of 1934 motor cars that everywhere have swept the country?

Are not the first three: Knee-Action Wheels, No Draft Ventilation and the streamlined, Fisher-body beauty of General Motors cars?

Just as these were outstanding triumphs in 1934, so you can count on it—General Motors will have something decidedly interesting to say in 1935.

And just as we produced Canada's sales-leading automobiles in this year—certainly it is that our cars will win you again in the next.

For the reason that General Motors always works with an eye to the future and an ear to the ground—aware of your wishes well in advance and ably fitted to meet them.

A MATTER OF COURAGE

The Government of Ontario, which recently borrowed $1,000,000 at 2½ per cent interest, is to float a new loan early in the New Year for $2,000,000, using the money to pay off outstanding bonds which draw 6 per cent interest.

If the new loan is floated on terms as favorable as the old, the taxpayers will save $75,000 a year in interest charges. The reduced rates on the former loan saved them more than $800,000 per year. It pays to refund high-rate bonds into low-rate bonds.

But can Ontario get the money? Of course it can. But it does not have to pay what they are asked to pay. Only private borrowers have to do that. Governments can set the rates they pay. Only Governments which—like that of Alberta—have not courage enough to say "no" to the demands of a revenue committee of the situation would be compelled to go ahead and do it, as being the only sensible and safe thing to do in the circumstances.

PROVINCE AND CITY

Against a funded debt of $141,610,965, the province of Alberta has accumulated a sinking fund amounting to $5,651,494. But the city of Edmonton, with a gross debt of $20,772,718, has piled up a sinking fund of $3,000,000.

Even the province has provided a sinking fund to meet its debt obligations on Edmonton, which has provided four times the money needed to protect the interests of its creditors.
If Edmonton's sinking fund is not excessive, then the province should have more than $20,000,000 in its sinking fund at the present time.

But the holders of provincial bonds are showing no signs of panic because the provincial sinking fund stands at only $8 for each $141 of debt.

The inference is plain beyond any question: that the holders of Edmonton's bonds would not turn into panic if the city decided to protect its taxpayers, its solvency, and their investments, by withholding payments into the sinking fund for a couple of years. On the contrary, they would be in a better position to protect the situation which the druggist has brought with a request that the druggist never be stuck by such difficulties.

The saddest story of the week comes from a

For the most frank and honest public statement in the past week go to a woman writer in New York. Asked if she was worried about the war, she said: "I am not worried. When I am worried, I am worried about my son, my husband, and John Brown returned case of plenty of hunting but no deer.

Mr. Wade, foreman of the petroleum boring the weather will permit.

The Winnipeg Commercial's correspondent at Vancouver recently called on the C.P.R. officials in regard to rate discriminations against Vancouver and in favor of Winnipeg as to the trade of the Kootenay district. He says, after a long conversation, and a lesson on freight rates lasting over an hour, "your correspondent left with the impression that the Canadian Pacific was an institution kept running entirely for philanthropic purposes."

THIRTY YEARS AGO and December, 1901, are missing from the files in the office of the Bulletin. Thirty years ago items are accordingly omitted through the New Year.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

A Londoner, a British squadron under command of Vice-Admiral Frederick Sturdee, chief of the war staff, engaged a German squadron under Admiral Count Von Spee on the Falkland Islands. The British force consisted of the armored cruisers Achernar and Gneisenau and the protected cruiser Leipzig, three of the German warships which have been menacing British shipping and part of the squadron which sailed and sank the British Endeavour and the Monarch in the Pacific on Nov. 1, last week, while the cruisers Dresden and Nurnberg, the two other vessels which composed the German squadron, made off during the fight and are being sought for. The Leipzig was sunk as an enemy supply ship was sent.

The announcement of the engagement, the most important naval engagement in the war with the exception of that off Heligoland last August, was made in a statement by the Admiralty of less romantic and secure a figure than Lawrence of Arabia. The charges Lawrence with having committed many blunders during the campaign, saying:

"It was a blunder to the Arab movement . . . He was not capable of leading the movement, for it was not his to lead, and he failed, quite naturally, to instill into the Arabs the necessary enthusiasm. He attempted to do so, but failed in all action, both political and military. It was alike impossible and unjustifiable."

The man to whom Major Bray gives the honor for accomplishment in Arabia is an astonishing Englishman named Leachman, of the Royal Engineers, the head-quarters staff of the British force in the Middle East.

Leachman is said to have exercised uncanny power over the Arabs. On one occasion he saved Kerbela from an attack at seized by his own men, who were in command of the invading troops and held him captive.

The bold and decisive part that Leachman played in the Arabian campaign is all the more remarkable because, unlike Col. Lawrence, he was stationed there as money and men. He had no men, he had no money, he had no money or confidence and courageous spirit. It is with regret one adds that Leachman died in 1920 in Baghdad, practically without recognition.

Major Bray's article is sure to arouse much discussion.

POEMS THAT LIVE

COLOGNE
In Köln, a town of moulds and bones,
And pacements forged with murderous stones,
And rags, and hags, and hideous wenches;
I counted two and twenty stencilles,
All well defined, and several stencilles!

The Rhine. Which is a river of death, Dath with your city of Cologne;

But tell me, Nymphs! what power divine Shall henceforth wash the river Rhine?

—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

But while his income was going to pieces, was the farmer's load reduced in proportion, or at all? Nothing done in that direction. His debts were not cut down. The interest on them was not cut down. His taxes were not cut down while his earnings shrank, leaving him facing the impossible demand that he pay three bushels of wheat where he had supposedly contracted to pay one. As a farmer could not do that, the only solution was to add to his debts, public and private, and he is to be held charged interest on the interest he couldn't pay.

Here is a maxim of sound, orthodox banking, which applies to farmers as to others: Money lost is never regained. However much the loser may make in future years, he can never recover the money he lost, any more than one can go back and pick up an opportunity that has passed.

The national agricultural debt will result, and will be paid, by the children of the land and the land policies are brought into play. But there is no going back and redeeming the loss that has been thrust upon the farmers, and the nation. That wealth has vanished forever.

In the words of Sir Josiah Stamp: Buying the power cannot be avoided; it perishes with the day.

COUNCIL RUMPUT RAGES OVER MAYOR'S DISMISSELS

Aldermen Demand Reinstatement Of Employees Fired

CHRISTMAS EVE STORE CLOSING EARLY ORDERED

Will Remain Open Until 10 on Certain Nights

Prior

Taking cognizance of the fact that the larger retail businesses in Edmonton have been granted an extension of closing at six o'clock on Christmas Eve, instead of 10 o'clock on December 25, the city council, at its meeting Monday night, revised the regulations governing store closing on the eve prior to the holiday.

Merchants are now permitted to remain open until 10 p.m. on Saturday, December 24, and Saturday, December 25. Those deciding to remain open until 10 p.m. on Monday, December 26, will be granted a 10 p.m. closing concession for December 21 and a 10 p.m. closing up shop at 6 p.m. on December 22.

Before being changed by council, the change, pointed out that the larger stores wished to close down at 10 p.m. in order to give the staffs an opportunity of leaving work early Christmas Eve. If there is no demand for a 10 p.m. concession, then council should allow them to stay open for business until 10 p.m. on December 21, he argued.

MADE OPTIONAL

The point was well taken that if the stores did not want it, it would give the merchants the advantage of closing late on the days preceding Christmas.

Getting around this point, Ald. J. T. McCreaith pointed out that the mayor, chairman of the commission on labour and welfare, had the right to give the staffs an opportunity of leaving work early Christmas Eve. If there is no demand for a 10 p.m. concession, then council should allow them to stay open for business until 10 p.m. on December 21. His motion was given support.

THE curious Chilli pine, a ghost tree from out of the ages before man, now is to be found in many sections of the world, having unusual appearance. The British call it the "Monkey Puzzle," a tree that monkeys cannot climb.

Garbo
from barber's helper to highest paid star

A MODEL AT 16—Greta Garbo is shown here as she modeled a coat in a Stockholm department store in 1921. A few months before she had worked in a barber's shop where she made lather and patted it on customers' faces and kept razors clean.

AS A BATHING BEAUTY IN 1922—Garbo's first public appearance was as a hat model in an ad (right) and when a movie director came into the store, she begged him for a job. He used her as one of three bathing beauties in a short comedy, "Peter the Tramp."

Garbo's First Public Appearance Was In Hat Ad 13 Years Ago

HOLLYWOOD UNMASKED

Rare Photos Show Filmdom As It Is "Behind the Scenes"
Tricks of Picture-Making and Careers of Stars Revealed

THE CATALOGUE GIRL—Yes, it's really Greta Garbo. The page is from the 1921 spring catalogue of a Stockholm department store where Garbo worked in the haberdashery department. Her name was Greta Gustafson then. Her father died when she was 14.

FIRST STEP TOWARD FILM FAME—After her appearance in "Peter the Tramp," Greta Garbo quit her job at a department store and joined the Royal Dramatic School. There she studied, played bits in plays, and got $40 a month. She went to Maurice Stiller and asked for a job. He changed her name to Garbo, and gave her a small part in "The Story of Greta Berling." Garbo impressed Stiller and he took her to Berlin for the premier of the movie. It was her first trip outside of Sweden.

PLANS FOR FILM IN BERLIN FAIL—Maurice Stiller, director, and his protege, Greta Garbo, weren't always successful in film-making. A group of men decided to finance the director in a picture to be made in Germany. Garbo accompanied Stiller, and is seen here arriving in Constantinople. They had been in Turkey only a short time when the Berlin backers announced they were broke.

They're Both Greta Garbo!

DIDN'T WANT HER—Louis B. Mayer was impressed by Mauritz Stiller's direction of "The Story of Greta Berling" and tried to get him under contract. Stiller wanted him to hire Garbo, too, but Mayer, who saw Garbo as at left, refused, but later gave in. At right, Garbo, to-day's highest paid film star

CARBO AS A COMEDIAN!—For a comedy touch in an advertising film, Garbo was dressed in a riding habit several sizes too large for her and this was the result. She practised in front of the mirror for a half hour to get this pose.

GRETÀ GARBO A YOUNG GIRL

GLAMOROUS GRETÀ GARBO HOLLYWOOD'S MYSTERY STAR

Garbo's box-office value is on the wane. So says a recent vote of theatre managers, but she is still said to be the highest paid film star at a reputed salary of $9,000 a week. When she first arrived in the film colony studios did not want her. In order to sign her manager, Mauritz Stiller, they had to sign Garbo. She failed in Hollywood. Garbo reached the top of the ladder with the announcement she was highest paid star in Hollywood.
